

LROC captures surface of the Moon

July 17, 2009

Play Slideshow

< Previous Photo Next Photo >

Mark Robinson, a professor in the ASU School of Earth and Space Exploration, is the principal investigator for the Lunar Reconnaissance Orbiter Camera (LROC) – the imaging system aboard NASA’s Lunar Reconnaissance Orbiter (LRO). The LRO, which launched June 18, is the first in a series of robotic missions to the Moon.

Photographer: Tom Story

1 2 Next >

Other Galleries

Related Story:

LROC takes first look at Apollo landing sites

New focus on the Moon

LROC captures surface of the Moon
Jul 17, 2009

ASU Art Museum exhibition: 'I'm Keeping an Eye on You'
May 13, 2009

2009 Spring Convocations
May 18, 2009

ASU Spring Commencement 2009
May 13, 2009

Spring Commencement 2009 - Pre-ceremony
May 13, 2009

Sustainable Transportation
May 11, 2009

2009 Pat's Run Tempe
Apr 18, 2009

More Galleries